FURNITURE

IN recent years there has developed an increasing appreciation of those styles in furniture that embody artistic simplicity, comfortable form and rich dull finish.

In Russmore Furniture, we have surpassed all previous achievements in originating furniture of this plain type.

It is made from a wood peculiarly adapted to a special treatment by which the color—a beautiful deep brown—is obtained and also a rich sheen which in certain lights gives an effect of glow to the surface. This color is not produced by means of stains or fillers, is absolutely permanent and is the most superb tone that has yet been brought out in dull finishes.

Its design is an expression of conceptions of art that do not involve ideas of ostentatious carving, ornament or display, and which manifest the best ideas of simple elegance.

In construction, Rusmore Furniture is hand-made, the joints being mortised, tenoned and pinned and in consequence it can be depended upon to stand rough usage and to give many years of service.

The bottoms of the chairs and settees instead of being webbed are corded like an old-fashioned bedstead insuring great strength and comfort.

The cushions for this furniture are covered with various materials, but we most largely use a new leather of a shade and finish especially appropriate to the color of the wood.

We have designed many handsome patterns of the Rusmore type in Chairs, Settees, Bookcases, Dining Tables, Sideboards, etc., and therefore offer opportunities for making exceedingly desirable selections.

The prices will be noted as remarkably low for furniture of such novelty and merit.

On account of the imitations which have followed the introduction of many of our inventions, we have had the name Russmore registered as a trade-mark and it is put upon every genuine piece of this furniture.

Those who contemplate the purchase of furniture plain in style should consider the quality of workmanship as well as the desirability of patterns. In late years many so called "Arts and Crafts" workers have appeared who, although they may produce creditable designs, lack technical knowledge of furniture making, and their products, even if apparently substantial, cannot be relied upon as possessing durability.

In Russmore as in all other furniture offered by this company, the purchaser receives the benefit of forty-seven years of practical experience in the making and selling of furniture.

THE TOBEY CHAIR

PATENT APPLIED FOR

This unique chair is the result of forty-five years' experience in the investigation and design of every type of furniture. During this period we have made or sold nearly every kind of chair that has ever been on the market, and bring this new pattern to the attention of our patrons as possessing features common to none of the others.

The characteristics which make it a novelty are two movements giving an independent sliding seat and an adjustable reclining back, either of which can be arranged independent of any position of the other—and while the person is seated in the chair.

The back, instead of moving on a hinge, as in the Morris chair, is adjusted at the desired angle by simply being placed in position in a set of notches or ratchets at the side of the frame. This arrangement requires no hinges, rods, hooks or other metal work to be used, and exhibits a simplicity original and effective in character.

The seat slides easily to any position desired and is secured at will by a small brass catch.

These independent movements of the back and seat allow, therefore, any angle of inclination of the back to be had with different depths of the seat, thus accommodating either tall or short persons, and this is the first chair ever invented in which this advantage is presented.
